About the Publication of This Report

We published this report in the sincere hope that all stakeholders (customers, suppliers, shareholders, investors, local citizens and employees) of DENSO will understand our activities, and as a result, establish an enduring relationship of trust.

In fiscal 2006, we began to call the report "the CSR Report" instead of the previous "Environmental and Social Report." We reviewed the contents and layout of the report from the viewpoint of CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility).

With the development of our CSR policy of "DENSO Group Declaration of Corporate Behavior," we summarize our CSR concepts in the first half of this report. We focus particular attention this time on "Respect for the Employee (Development of the Employee)," one of three priority areas in our efforts to distinguish DENSO.

We also reduced the number of printed pages by posting some of the more detailed data on our website. Please visit our home page to access related information.
